

NOTIFICATION OF RISKS

version dated July 1, 2018

Table of contents

1. Margin Trading Risks.....	3
2. Technical Risks	4
3. Risks Associated with High Volatility of Trading Instruments	4
4. Information Distribution Risks	5
5. Force Majeure Risks.....	5
6. Prohibitions and Restrictions Imposed by Legislation.....	5

This Notification is issued by OrangeFX Limited (hereinafter referred to as the "Company") providing the Customer with the Personal Area service in accordance with the Customer Agreement (hereinafter referred to as the "Customer Agreement") and discloses information about risks relating to the performance of trading operations in financial markets, as well as warns the Customer of possible financial losses relating to the risks. Trading in financial markets is connected with a high level of risk; this Notification contains the description of the most common kinds of risk; their list, however, is not exhaustive.

1. Margin Trading Risks

- 1.1. Considering that leverage is provided in the course of trading, losses may be significant and occur very quickly, and may exceed the customer's deposit or risk capital.
- 1.2. One should not consider statements and/or recommendations of third parties that risks may be limited, minimized or eliminated.
- 1.3. The Customer agrees to immediately notify the Company of contrary statements and/or recommendations made and/or given to them by Company staff, Agents and Partners of the Company as well as any third parties capable of influencing the Customer's trading strategy.
- 1.4. Trading in the FOREX, CFD and futures market includes high risks of losses unacceptable to most individuals. The Customer may partially or completely lose their deposit. If the Customer used to employ more conservative methods of investing, the Customer should familiarize themselves with the risks associated with currency trading before they decide to start trading.
- 1.5. The Customer is fully responsible for losses incurred as a result of a wrong choice of the trading strategy or neglect of capital management rules.
- 1.6. It is highly recommended that the Margin Level is maintained at least equal to 1,000% and Stop Loss orders are always set in order to limit possible losses.
- 1.7. The Company shall not be monitoring the customer account, losses and/or damages. However, the Company does not deny the Customer opening of an account and provision of brokerage services on condition that the Customer is familiar with the Notification of Risks and understands the degree of financial risks associated with currency trading.
- 1.8. The Customer understands that aggressive trading, especially intraday trading, are highly risky trading strategies. The Customer also understands that such a strategy increases the risk of significant financial losses.

2. Technical Risks

- 2.1. The Customer assumes the risk of financial losses incurred as a result of a failure of information, communication, electronic and other systems.
- 2.2. Performing trading operations using a client terminal the Customer assumes the risk of financial losses as may occur due to:
 - 2.2.1. Hardware and software failures and poor quality of communication on the Customer's side;
 - 2.2.2. Improper operation of Customer's equipment;
 - 2.2.3. Incorrect settings of the client terminal;
 - 2.2.4. Untimely update of the client terminal version.
- 2.3. The Customer assumes the risk of performance of unplanned trading operations in the event an order is sent again before the result of processing of the first order is received.
- 2.4. The Customer acknowledges that information sent by email in clear is not protected from unauthorized access.
- 2.5. The Customer is fully responsible to maintain confidentiality of information they receive from the Company and assumes the risk of any financial losses caused by unauthorized access of third parties to their trading account.
- 2.6. The Customer acknowledges that the only reliable price feed source is the main server providing service to actual Customers. Quotation bases on the client terminal may not serve as a reliable price feed source, and in the event of unstable connection between the client terminal and the server some quotations of the price feed may not reach the client terminal.

3. Risks Associated with High Volatility of Trading Instruments

- 3.1. A number of instruments have significant intraday price change ranges, which implies high probability of significant losses on trading transactions.
- 3.2. The Customer acknowledges that in market conditions other than normal the time of processing of Customer's orders may be increased.

4. Information Distribution Risks

- 4.1. The Company's website is not designed for distribution or use by any individual in a state where the use or distribution of such information is not allowed by local legislation.
- 4.2. Services offered on the Company's website are not available to those residing in states where the provision of such services is not allowed by local legislation.
- 4.3. The observance of all local laws, instructions and rules is the responsibility of the website visitor.

5. Force Majeure Risks

- 5.1. The Customer assumes the risk of financial losses incurred as a result of force majeure circumstances.

6. Prohibitions and Restrictions Imposed by Legislation

- 6.1. The Customer assumes financial and other risks in the event the performance of operations (and actions relating thereto) in financial markets is prohibited or restricted by legislation of the country of Customer's permanent residence.
- 6.2. The Customer acknowledges the above risks and agrees that they personally control and are responsible for all trading operations performed in their trading account.